Changing a name on an airline ticket can feel complicated, but Delta Airlines' name change policy is designed to help passengers correct mistakes or update their legal identity with minimal stress.

What Is the Delta Airlines Name Change Policy?

Delta Airlines allows passengers to make name corrections or changes on ticketed reservations as long as the modification does not transfer the ticket to a completely different traveler. Delta's policy distinguishes between minor corrections, which are simple and free in many cases, and major legal name changes, which may require documentation.

Can You Change a Name on a Delta Ticket?

Yes, you can—as long as the traveler remains the same person. Delta does not allow full passenger swaps. Corrections are accepted for:

- Minor spelling mistakes
 - Hyphen or spacing errors
 - Changes due to legal name updates (marriage, divorce, court order)

How Do You Request a Delta Airlines Name Change?

To change a name on your Delta ticket, you can use one of the following methods:

1. Online via “My Trips” (for minor corrections)

2. By calling Delta Customer Service
3. Through the travel agency that issued the ticket
4. At a Delta ticket counter (for urgent situations)

If documents are needed (such as legal name-change proof), Delta will request them during the process.

What Types of Name Corrections Does Delta Allow?

Delta allows two primary categories:

Minor Name Corrections

These include:

- One or two letters wrong
- Nickname to legal name
- Missing middle name
- Reversed first/last name
- Adding or removing a hyphen

These are usually easy to fix and often free.

Major Name Changes

Major changes apply when:

- You legally changed your name
- A marriage or divorce changed your surname
- A court order updated your identity

These require legal documentation and may carry a fee.

What Documents Are Required for a Delta Airlines Name Change?

For large or official name updates, Delta may request:

- Marriage certificate
- Divorce decree
- Court order for name change
- Updated government ID
- Passport with the new name

Delta only needs copies—not original documents.

Does Delta Airlines Charge a Fee for Name Changes?

Delta's fees depend on the type of correction:

- Minor corrections: Usually free, especially if booked directly with Delta.
- Major legal name changes: May include a reissue fee or fare difference.

If your new name requires reissuing the ticket, any difference in fare must be paid.

How Long Does It Take for a Delta Name Change to Process?

Simple spelling fixes can be completed instantly online.

Legal name changes, which require document review, typically take:

- 24–72 hours if handled by Delta directly
- Up to 5 days if processed through a third-party agency

Always request your change early to avoid travel delays.

Can You Change the Passenger Name on a Delta Ticket to Someone Else?

No. Delta does not allow the transfer of a ticket to a different traveler. You can only correct or legally update the name of the original passenger.

How to Change a Delta Name on a Ticket Booked Through a Third-Party?

If your ticket was booked via:

- Expedia
- Priceline
- Kayak
- A travel agent
- A corporate travel portal

You must contact the issuing agency, not Delta, to request the name change. The agency may charge additional fees.

Tips to Avoid Issues When Changing a Name on a Delta Ticket

- Review your ticket name immediately after booking.
 - Ensure the name matches your government-issued ID exactly.
 - Start legal name changes early if planning to travel soon.
 - Keep digital copies of all supporting documents.
